INTRODUCTION

Key to the Atlas.—Although the area covered by the maps in this Atlas is large and much detail is given, it is possible to use it in such a manner as to make reference a very simple matter. The Index Map should first be studied. Here it will be seen that the whole area is divided into 45 maps, and the observer will note the position and succession of the various numbers : these numbers represent the sheets in the book.

The Half-mile Squares and Circles.—The whole map before being dissected into sheets was divided into half-mile squares and circles, all measured from Charing Cross, which forms a convenient centre. Now open any map in the book : in one corner, or at the centre of the border, will be found a small arrow pointing to Charing Cross : take for instance Sheet 1. The arrow is in the south-east corner, and it teaches at a glance that the sheet is in the north-west corner of London : the portions of circles are those struck from Charing Cross and the mileage of each from that centre is entered in the margin.

Outside the border of the map will be found the words “Adjoining Sheet,” which is a guide for tracing continuation of districts from page to page.

“Underground” Railways.—These are brought out prominently on the sheets by a strong red line.

Postal Districts and Delivery Areas.—The boundaries, initials, and numbers of these are marked in strong red on all sheets in the Atlas.

Parks, Open Spaces, Cemeteries, etc., to which the public have free access are coloured strong solid green ; Parks, Open Spaces, etc., which are private, or at which payment for entrance must be made, are shown by a green cross-ruling.

Index.—The plan of the Index is “Letters down the sides : Figures top and bottom.” Thus, if we want to find “Abbeville Road,” we consult the Index which reads “Abbeville-rd., sw4, Sheet 34, Square B 2,” and the road will be found on Sheet 34, opposite Square B and under 2.

A BRIEF GUIDE TO LONDON

The City of London occupies an area of 677 statute acres, with a population, according to the census of 1931, of only 10,996 (this is the night or resident population). The river forms the southern boundary; Aldgate and the Tower mark the eastern; the site of Temple Bar the western; and Norton Folgate the northern.

London was made a separate county by the Local Government Act of 1888, and the area, 74,850 acres, included within its limits a population in 1931 of 4,397,003. It has a rateable value of £57,487,535.

The Metropolis is divided for postal purposes into eight Head Districts, each comprising a number of Delivery Districts. The Head Districts are: Eastern Central (E.C.), close around the General Post Office, and comprising the greater part of "The City"; the Western Central (W.C.) to the west of the former; the Eastern (E.); the Northern (N.); the North-Western (N.W.); the Western (W.); the South-Western (S.W.); and the South-Eastern (S.E.).

A system of addressing correspondence is in operation, under which a number placed after the Head Postal District initials indicates the proper office of delivery. Thus N.W. 1 indicates the area served from the North-Western Head District Office, and N.W. 3 the Hampstead area. The system facilitates the sorting of correspondence and tends to prevent delay.

INTERESTING FACTS CONNECTED WITH THE METROPOLIS

LONDON GOVERNMENT

The City, corresponding nearly with the old line of the Roman walls, with the addition of the Wards of Portsoken, Bishopsgate Without, Cripplegate Without, and Farringdon Without, and the extension of the Wards of Coleman Street and Aldersgate, is governed by a Lord Mayor, a Court of Aldermen elected for life, and a Common Council elected by the various wards. The revenue of the Corporation is about £280,000 per annum.

Authorities. There are many different local authorities exercising jurisdiction within the administrative County of London, the most important of which are the London County Council, the City Corporation and 28 Metropolitan Borough Councils.

The Post Office (London Postal Service Department) employs over 34,000 persons, and there are nearly 1,000 post offices and over

A BRIEF GUIDE TO LONDON

4,700 posting receptacles. Over 2,000 million letters are posted in London annually and over 1,800 million are delivered.

Passenger Transport in the London Area.—As from the 1st July, 1933, the London Passenger Transport Board assumed control of nearly all the passenger transport undertakings within a radius of about 30 miles from Charing Cross. These services include the Underground Railways, omnibuses, trams and coaches, and provision has been made for co-operation with the Main Line railways in respect of their suburban services. The Board's area, known as the London Passenger Transport Area, extends from Baldock in the north to Horsham in the south, and from Gravesend in the east to Maidenhead in the west.

In 1932 the undertakings which have been acquired by the Board carried the following number of passengers: railways 430,000,000, omnibuses 1,960,000,000, tramways 1,030,000,000, trolleybuses 27,000,000, coaches 16,000,000.

The total number of local passengers carried on the Main Line railways within the Board's area in 1932 was about 500,000,000.

The Metropolitan Water Companies (eight in number), have been superseded by the Water Board of 66 members. The Board supply an area of 560 square miles and a population of 7,166,000.

Police. The Metropolitan Police Force, which has its headquarters at New Scotland Yard, Victoria Embankment, Westminster, S.W. 1., numbers 19,897 men of all ranks and their jurisdiction extends over an area of 699·42 square miles; this area comprises all places within a radius of roughly 15 miles from Charing Cross, excluding however the City of London (675 acres), which is policed by a separate force of 1,161 men.

Enquiries for property lost in omnibuses, trams and taxicabs should be made at the Lost Property Office, 109 Lambeth Road, S.E. 1., and similar enquiries regarding articles lost or found in the streets should be made at the nearest Police Station.

London is protected against fire by the London County Council Fire Brigade, which consists of about 1,930 officers and men of all ranks.

Education. The education of nearly 1,000,000 Londoners, young and old, is regulated by the Education Committee of the County Council. There are about 1,000 elementary and central schools, 170 special schools for physically or mentally defective children, 100 secondary schools, and 250 technical and trade schools, schools of art, and evening schools. The teachers and officials number 30,000, and 25,000 scholarships are awarded.

Finance. The London County Council has a net debt of about 55 millions sterling and administers a revenue of about 26 millions sterling.

The Gas Companies, of which there are five, supply over 75,000 million cubic feet of gas.

The Electric Lighting is carried out, roughly, half by private companies and half by Borough Council undertakings.

THE PRINCIPAL PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND SIGHTS

(IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER)

Admiralty (Charing Cross or Trafalgar Square Stations), in Whitehall, contains the departments of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty. Admiralty Arch completed 1910.

Agricultural Hall (The Angel Station), Upper Street, Islington. Comprising three acres of ground. Mainly used for cattle shows and trade exhibitions.

Albert Memorial (South Kensington Station), erected in memory of the late Prince Consort, is in the south-eastern corner of Kensington Gardens, opposite the Albert Hall. It was designed by Sir Gilbert Scott and cost £120,000.

Arcades and Bazaars:—

ROYAL ARCADE (Bond Street or Green Park Stations), leading from Old Bond Street to Albemarle Street.

BURLINGTON ARCADE (Green Park Station) is one of the sights of London, leading from Piccadilly to Burlington Gardens, and forms a great fashionable resort in the Season.

LUDGATE OR IMPERIAL ARCADE, Ludgate Circus (Blackfriars Station), close to viaduct of the Southern Railway.

ROYAL OPERA ARCADE (Piccadilly Circus Station), from Pall Mall to Charles Street.

PICCADILLY ARCADE (Piccadilly Circus Station), from Piccadilly to Jermyn Street, a new structure of considerable interest.

Bank of England (Bank Station), the site of which occupies over three acres, was founded in the year 1694. The existing walls are the work of Sir John Soane (1823). Orders to view the Bank are no longer issued, the public being admitted only for the transaction of business.

Blackwall Tunnel.—This tunnel, running from Blackwall to East Greenwich, was designed by Sir A. Binnie and opened in 1897. It is 2,070 yards long, including approaches, and cost £1,265,000. A similar tunnel runs from Stepney to Rotherhithe.

Buckingham Palace, St. James's Park (St. James' Park or Trafalgar Square Stations), purchased by George III and altered by George IV, cost upwards of a million sterling. The elegant bronze gates cost £3,150. The Marble Arch, at the north-east corner of Hyde Park, was once the principal entrance to the Palace and cost £80,000. The Arch was removed in 1851.

County Hall (Westminster Station), Westminster Bridge, is the headquarters of the London County Council, built on Pedlar's Acre, Lambeth, from the design of Ralph Knott. The area of the site is approximately $6\frac{1}{2}$ acres, and the building is 700 feet long, with an average width of rather more than 300 feet. The building contains a council chamber, reception hall, committee rooms, offices, etc.

Courts of Justice (Temple or Aldwych Stations) stand on an area of about seven acres, and cost nearly £2,450,000. It was built from the designs of the late Mr. G. E. Street, R.A., between 1868 and 1882, at an expense of £1,000,000. It is in a florid and composite style of Gothic architecture, and contains some fine detail in the ornamentation. The Central Hall is 138 feet long by 40 feet wide and 80 feet high, and the twelve Courts open from galleries along each side. There are about 1,100 apartments in the building; the chief entrance is in the Strand. It has a frontage of 500 feet and a clock tower 160 feet high, and was opened by Queen Victoria on the 11th of January, 1883. The public are admitted to the galleries when the Courts are sitting, and the whole of the interior may be viewed during vacation. A large additional building on the west was built during 1912.

Custom House, in Lower Thames Street (Monument Station), is about midway between London Bridge and the Tower, fronting the Thames; it was designed by Laing; cost £200,000, including site, and was opened in 1817. The centre portion of the Custom House was rebuilt by Smirke, after a collapse of the foundations; cost £426,000. Here all the customs dues of the Port of London are levied. Open 9 till 3.

DOCKS

East India Docks, with two basins covering about 68 acres, lie between Poplar and Blackwall on the west and the River Lea, a tributary of the Thames, on the east. Opened in 1806. Union Castle liners start from here.

King George V Dock (Connaught Road, North Woolwich and Manor Way Stations), south of Royal Albert Dock, opened in 1921, has a water area of 65 acres, and will accommodate the largest liners.

London Docks (Shadwell or Wapping Stations), eastward of the last named, and northward of High Street, Wapping. These docks with warehouses, etc., cover 100 acres, and receive most of the wool, wine, etc., sent to this country. Opened in 1805. Pumps maintain a water level above the Thames high water mark.

Millwall Docks, in two portions, in the southern part of the Isle of Dogs. They cover 230 acres. Opened in 1868. Used chiefly for grain.

Regent's Canal Dock is just east of Stepney, and does not come under the Port of London Authority.

Royal Victoria and Albert Docks extend from Blackwall to Gallion's Reach, a distance of three miles. The water area alone extends over 181 acres. The Royal Victoria Dock was opened in 1855, and the Royal Albert Dock in 1880. Grain, tobacco, and frozen meat are the principal articles warehoused. Large liners use the docks for unloading.

St. Katharine Dock (Mark Lane Station), eastward of the Tower, and approached from East Smithfield, covers an area of 24 acres. Opened 1828.

A BRIEF GUIDE TO LONDON

Surrey Commercial Docks (Surrey Docks Station). These are situated on the south side of the Thames. They cover an area of 460 acres, including the Surrey Canal. Grain and large quantities of timber for building purposes are received. The timber ponds cover 70 acres, and 250 acres of land are available for storing wood.

Tilbury Docks (Tilbury Station), situated further down the Thames opposite Gravesend, accommodate the largest liners.

West and South West India Docks, opened in 1802, stretch from Limehouse to Blackwall across the Isle of Dogs in three parallel basins; 241 acres.

General Post Office (Post Office Station). The old General Post Office in St. Martins-le-Grand, completed in 1829 from designs of Sir R. Smirke, was demolished in 1914. The foundation stone of the new General Post Office, in King Edward Street ("Post Office" Tube Station), was laid by King Edward VII in 1905. The building, which is on the site of the old Bluecoat School, was occupied in 1910; it contains a handsome public office, above which are the clerical offices of the Controller of the London Postal Service, and behind which (abutting on Newgate Street) is the principal sorting office for correspondence addressed to London or places abroad. Letters for the Provinces, and parcels for any address, are sorted in separate offices at Mount Pleasant, on the site of the old Coldbath Fields Prison; the last remnants of the old Prison gave place to a large letter-sorting office opened in 1926.

The Post Office Secretariat and Accountant General are accommodated on the west side of St. Martins-le-Grand, being divided by Angel Street from the Central Telegraph Office. The Post Office Savings Bank is close to Olympia at West Kensington, and the London Telephone Service has its headquarters close to Waterloo Station.

Greenwich Observatory, in Greenwich Park (New Cross Underground Station, thence by motor-bus), was built by order of Charles II, and is on the meridian from which geographers calculate longitude, a conference held at Washington in 1884 of all the important states of the world having accepted the meridian of Greenwich as the universal zero or prime meridian.

The Time-Ball descends here at 1 p.m., when "Greenwich Time" is electrically transmitted to the principal towns. Visitors are sometimes admitted (on application to the Director) to view the astronomical apparatus.

Guildhall (Bank Station) is at the end of King Street, Cheapside. Here are held the meetings of the Corporation, the Common Council, and other gatherings connected with the City of London; the Hall is 152 feet long, 50 feet broad and 89 feet high, and has been used for the civic banquets since 1501. At the west end, on either side of the great window erected to the memory of the late Prince Consort, are the old and curious figures of Gog and Magog, 15 feet in height. The Hall also contains splendid marble monuments to Pitt, Nelson, Wellington, and others. The spacious Council Chamber, and the Lord Mayor and Aldermen's retiring and committee rooms, containing a valuable collection of pictures, are on view from 10 to 4, on application to the Hall-keeper. Attached to the Guildhall is a handsome Free Library, Newspaper Room, and Museum built in 1872, containing several thousand rare and valuable volumes, curiosities, autographs, etc., specially connected with civic matters and the antiquities of London; also an Art Gallery. The oldest parts of the Guildhall date from 1411, but it was nearly destroyed by the fire of 1666, only the walls to about the height of 30 feet escaping. The front was erected by George Dance in 1789, and the fine timber roof of the Hall, following the design of the original roof, was finished in 1866. The crypt is a good specimen of late Gothic groined vaulting.

Holborn Viaduct (Post Office Station) is 1,400 feet long and 80 feet wide, and was opened by Queen Victoria on November 6th, 1869. It spans Farringdon Street, Shoe Lane, etc., and connects Holborn with Newgate Street.

HOSPITALS

Bethlem Royal Hospital (Eden Park Station), founded in 1247 and re-founded under Charter from Henry VIII in 1546, has recently removed to the Hospital at Monks Orchard, Eden Park, Beckenham, Kent, where the care and treatment of mental and nervous cases are organised upon Hospital lines.

Charing Cross Hospital (Charing Cross and Strand Stations) is situated in Agar Street, West Strand, and was founded over one hundred years ago for the treatment of the sick and poor, and to give attention to accident cases. It accommodates over three hundred in-patients, and has a very large Casualty Department.

Foundling Hospital, founded in 1739 by Captain Thomas Coram for the admission of illegitimate children deserted by single women. The Hospital Schools were transferred in 1926 from Guilford Street, London, to Redhill, Surrey, pending the erection of new buildings at Berkhamstead, Hertfordshire.

Guy's Hospital (London Bridge Station), Southwark, founded and endowed in 1725 by Thomas Guy, a London bookseller and publisher. Supported by voluntary contributions.

London Hospital, The, E. 1 (Whitechapel Station). The largest General Hospital in England. 849 beds. Over 18,000 in-patients admitted yearly. Out-patient attendances nearly 600,000. Yearly cost of maintenance £270,000.

Middlesex Hospital, The, Mortimer Street (Tottenham Court Road or Oxford Circus Stations) was founded in 1745 in the open fields to the north of the parishes of St. Giles and Soho. To-day the outworn 18th century buildings, unsafe and inadequate for present day needs, are being pulled down and a modern hospital will shortly take their place. In 1792 a ward was opened for the reception of patients suffering from cancer, and from this developed the affiliated Cancer Charity, unique in possessing wards exclusively for cancer cases, great Research Departments, and a Medical School.

Royal Free Hospital, Grays Inn Road, W.C. 1. (Kings Cross Station). Founded in 1828 by Dr. William Marsden. 266 beds. Childrens' Ward, Maternity, Light Treatment, X Ray, and Electro-therapeutic Departments.

Royal Hospital, Chelsea (Sloane Square Station), for old soldiers; on the banks of the Thames, Chelsea. The Great Hall and Chapel are open to the public at certain hours, as are also portions of the grounds of the hospital.

St. Bartholomew's Hospital (Post Office Station), West Smithfield, is the oldest hospital in London. Founded in 1123. Will accommodate nearly 700 patients. At the north-eastern angle is a tablet with an inscription marking the spot where the martyrs were burned in Smithfield.

St. Thomas's Hospital (Westminster Station), Lambeth, cost £500,000, and will accommodate upwards of 600 patients. Opened by Queen Victoria in 1871. Over a quarter of a mile in length. In the out-patients department the average attendance is 1,100 per day. Attached to the hospital is the Nightingale Training School for nurses.

University College Hospital, Gower Street, W.C. 1 (Warren Street Station). A General Hospital (414 beds), including separate departments for special forms of disease, and incorporating the Obstetric Hospital and Royal Ear Hospital, Huntley Street, W.C. 1, and the National Dental Hospital, Great Portland Street, W. 1.

Houses of Parliament, or the New Palace of Westminster (Westminster Station), was designed in 1836 and built by Sir Charles Barry. It covers nearly eight acres of ground, and cost over £2,000,000. The finest view of the river frontage is obtained from the centre of Westminster Bridge. The exterior is entirely of Yorkshire magnesian limestone; the river frontage, 900 feet in length, is raised upon a fine terrace of Aberdeen granite.

The House of Lords is 91 by 45 feet, 45 feet high, and profusely ornamented. The House of Commons is 75 by 45 feet, and 41 feet high, and is much less elaborately finished. The two chambers constitute only a small part of the whole building. There are besides a great number of corridors, lobbies, halls, and courts, the Clock Tower, the Victoria Tower, the Royal Staircase, the Guard

Room, the King's Robing Room, the Royal Gallery and Court, the Prince's Chamber, the Speaker's Residence, various libraries, and innumerable committee rooms. The Victoria Tower is a magnificent structure 75 feet square and 340 feet high, at the base of which is the King's State Entrance, a noble arch. The Clock Tower is 40 feet square and 320 feet high, in which is "Big Ben," an immense bell of $13\frac{1}{2}$ tons. The Clock is the largest in the kingdom; the four dials are $22\frac{1}{2}$ feet in diameter, the minute hand is 11 feet long, the weights hang in a shaft 175 feet deep. The pendulum weighs 700 lbs., and its shaft is 15 feet long. During the sitting of the House of Commons a light is exhibited nightly on this Tower and a Union Jack in the day time on the Victoria Tower.

Admission can be obtained to the Stranger's Gallery during the sitting of the House of Commons by an order from a Member, or after 4.15 p.m. (12.15 p.m. on Fridays), if there is room in the Gallery, on personal application at the Admission Order Office. The interior can be viewed in company with a Member only. Admission free from 10 to 3.30 on Saturdays when the House is not sitting.

Lambeth Palace (Lambeth North Station), on the Albert Embankment, has been the Archbishop's house for over 700 years. The oldest part dates from the 13th century, the remainder being of various dates. The entrance gatehouse with its two towers was rebuilt in 1490. Lollards Tower dates from 1434 and was used as a prison in the 15th century. The chapel was built in the 13th century and restored in 1407. The library includes a large number of rare books and valuable MSS., collected by successive Archbishops since Whitgift and Bancroft, and placed at the disposal of readers for over 300 years.

Mansion House (Bank Station), the official residence of the Lord Mayor, is opposite the Bank of England; built of Portland stone and completed in 1753; cost £75,000. The chief apartment is called the Egyptian Hall, and is used for banquets and balls. The State Apartments may be viewed by permission, obtained by written application to the Lord Mayor's Secretary. In the Justice Room is the chief City Police Court.

British Museum, Great Russell Street (Holborn, Tottenham Court Road or Russell Square Stations), contains an unequalled collection of antiquities of every civilization and a fine ethnological museum, one of the four largest and the two finest libraries in the world, unique collections of statuary, pottery, bronzes, maps, engravings, coins, etc.

This great national institution owes its origin to the liberality of Sir Hans Sloane, who offered his extensive collections, valued at £50,000, to the nation, subject to certain conditions which were accepted by Parliament, in 1753, and the Cottonian Library and Harleian Manuscripts were afterwards added. Montague House was purchased the following year, and here in 1759 the Museum was first opened to the public. The nucleus of the Egyptian Antiquities was presented by George III in 1801; the Townley Marbles were purchased in 1805; the gallery of antiquities was opened in 1807; Colonel Greville's minerals were purchased in 1802; the Elgin marbles were acquired in 1816; Dr. Burney's Library was acquired in 1818; in 1823 the valuable library of 70,000 volumes collected by George III was acquired from George IV; and the Hon. T. Grenville's splendid library of 20,000 volumes was bequeathed in 1847.

A BRIEF GUIDE TO LONDON

The present buildings were commenced in 1823. Different portions have been added, the latest in 1914. A new gallery for the Elgin Marbles, the gift of Lord Duveen, is about to be erected. The cost of the whole building has been upwards of £1,000,000, and the annual grant (excluding upkeep of building, etc.) for the last two years has averaged £170,132; of this £15,000 is the purchase grant.

The Museum now has nine departments viz. ; (1) Printed Books, Maps, Charts, and Plans ; (2) Manuscripts ; (3) Oriental Printed Books and MSS. ; (4) Prints and Drawings ; (5) Egyptian and Assyrian Antiquities ; (6) Greek and Roman Antiquities ; (7) British and Mediæval Antiquities ; (8) Oriental Antiquities and Ethnography ; and (9) Coins and Medals ; each of these departments being under the immediate care of a Keeper. The Natural History departments have been transferred to the Natural History Museum. (See page 16).

THE MAGNIFICENT READING ROOM was opened in 1857 and cost £150,000. The Dome is 106 feet high and 140 feet in diameter. The Reading Room is open from 9 till 6. Royal Albert Hall (South Kensington Station). The Hall of Arts and Sciences is named after the late Prince Consort. The corner-stone was laid by Queen Victoria in 1867. It is oval in form, with three tiers of boxes, amphitheatre, orchestra, arena, balcony, and a gallery, and will accommodate 10,000 persons. The grand organ, built by Mr. Henry Willis, contains 111 stops and 9,000 pipes, ranging from 30 inches in diameter to the size of a straw, and from 32 feet in length to 6 inches. Supplied with wind by electric motors with Discus fans. The Hall is used for Choral Concerts, Mass Meetings, Boxing Contests, etc., and with the addition of the great temporary floor, which can be laid across the entire Hall, large Charity Balls are frequently held, when upwards of 3,000 dancers can take the floor at one time.

Royal Exchange (Bank Station), with fine Corinthian portico, opposite the Bank of England, was opened by Queen Victoria in 1844. It occupies the large area of 50,000 square feet. Bronze gates 22 feet high are placed at each entrance, and bear the arms of twelve of the principal City Companies. The panel paintings on ground floor are very fine. On the upper floor are Lloyd's Subscription Rooms. The best time to see the Royal Exchange is from 3 to 3.30 on Tuesdays and Fridays.

St. James's Palace (Green Park Station), in Pall Mall (not open to the public), built by Henry VIII. Royal residence from 1698 to 1837. Now the residence of the Prince of Wales.

A BRIEF GUIDE TO LONDON

St. Paul's Cathedral (Blackfriars or Post Office Stations), the Cathedral of the Diocese of London, is the most imposing building in the metropolis. It was designed and erected by Sir Christopher Wren, in place of the building which was destroyed by the Great Fire of London in 1666. The first stone was laid in 1675 and the last in 1710; it cost £747,954. It is 510 feet long by 225 feet wide, and 2,292 feet in circumference. The Cross, the length of which is 15 feet, is elevated 404 feet from the foundation. The Ball weighs 5,000 lbs, and the Cross 3,300 lbs. In the body of the building, to which visitors are admitted free, are many monuments of illustrious persons. The fees for viewing the other portions of the edifice are: Crypt 6d., Library, Whispering and Stone Galleries 6d., Golden Gallery 1s., and Ball 1s.

Somerset House (Temple or Aldwych Stations), formerly the palace of the Duke of Somerset, was built in 1780. It is situated on the south side of the Strand, and is used for the Inland Revenue Office, the Probate Registry and the Registrar-Generals Office.

Tower Bridge (Mark Lane Station) was designed by Sir John Wolfe Barry. The central span is formed of two drawbridges which weigh 950 tons each, and which are raised from the horizontal to the vertical position by hydraulic machinery, allowing sea-going vessels to pass under the high level bridge, which is 135 feet above high water mark. This upper bridge is not now used. The bridge was commenced in 1886 and opened in 1894.

Tower of London (Mark Lane Station), Tower Hill, was founded by William the Conqueror. Consists of a central keep 92 feet high, with walls 16 feet thick, known as the White Tower, surrounded by barracks, armouries, towers, etc., enclosed by a high wall; the whole covering 13 acres of ground, surrounded by a moat which can be filled with water at any time. The White Tower dates from the time of William the Conqueror, and the little Chapel is one of the best examples of the earlier Norman style. The cells in the White Tower, where many eminent persons were confined, and the Armouries, are objects of great interest. Open daily from 10 to 5 in winter and 10 to 6 in summer. Tickets are to be obtained at the entrance gate, up to 4 in winter and 5 in summer. A guide can usually be secured by previous application to the Resident Governor. For the Armouries, Jewel House and Bloody Tower a charge of 6d. each is made. Armouries free on Saturdays.

Trafalgar Square (Trafalgar Square or Charing Cross Stations) Nelson's Monument is on the south side of Trafalgar Square, facing Whitehall. It was commenced in 1843, but not completed till 1849, is 168 feet high, and surmounted by a statue of the naval hero 17 feet high. The four bas-reliefs represent the "Battle of th. Nile," the "Battle of Cape St. Vincent," the "Battle of Copenhagen," and the "Death of Nelson." The column cost about £46,000. The colossal recumbent lions in bronze on the four pedestals of granite projecting from each corner of the base of the monument were modelled by Sir Edwin Landseer.

Opposite the monument, in the direction of Whitehall, is an equestrian statue of Charles I, made by Le Sueur during the lifetime of the King. At the end of Cockspur Street is an equestrian statue of George III, by Wyatt, and on the north and south sides of Trafalgar Square there are statues of George IV (by Chantrey), Sir Henry Havelock, Sir Charles Napier, and General Gordon. The National Gallery forms the north side of the Square.

Treasury, the Home Office, the Exchequer, and the Privy Council Office (Charing Cross Station), together form a handsome range of buildings which have been embellished with a new facade by Sir C. Barry. The Treasury is the principal office of the Government. Next to the Treasury, on the south side of Downing Street, stands a large and handsome structure in the Italian style by the late Sir Gilbert Scott, R.A. It contains the Foreign, Indian, and Colonial Offices, and other State Departments. The Great Quadrangle has on one side the grand entrance, staircase, and conference rooms.

Tussaud's Exhibition (Baker Street Station), Marylebone Road, including Super-Cinema and popular Restaurant. Re-opened (after being burnt down) Christmas 1927.

Westminster Abbey (Westminster Station) is situated at the junction of Broad Sanctuary and Victoria Street, to the westward of the Houses of Parliament. This magnificent pile was built during the reigns of Henry III, Edward I, and Henry VII, the western towers being designed long afterwards by Sir Christopher Wren. It is in the Early English Gothic style of architecture (except Henry VII's Chapel, which is Late Gothic or Perpendicular), and was commenced in 1245. The length of the Abbey is 416 feet, breadth at transept 203 feet, height of western towers 225 feet. Here the visitor will find the tombs and monuments of some of Britain's greatest men. The Shrine of Edward the Confessor, the Coronation Chair, and the magnificent Chapel of Henry VII, containing the tombs of many royal personages, are of special interest. The fine old Cloisters lie on the south of the Nave, and offer one of the best views of the Abbey. Vergers attend from 9 till 6. Nave, Transept, and Cloisters free. Choral services every day at 7.45 a.m., 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., on Sundays during the summer at 7 p.m.

Westminster Hall (Westminster Station). This venerable building was founded by William Rufus in 1097, and partly rebuilt in its present form by Richard II, who in 1399 kept Christmas here with great magnificence, receiving 10,000 guests each day. The Coronation feasts have been held here for many centuries. St. Stephen's Crypt, lately restored in great splendour, is reached from the south end. The Great Hall is nearly 300 feet long, 70 feet wide, and 100 feet high, with plain walls of stone on either side, and without column or obstruction to interrupt the view. The roof is of carved oak, one of the finest extant, curiously constructed, and richly ornamented with heraldic emblems.

Whitehall (Charing Cross Station). The original palace was sold in 1248 by the Black Friars to the Archbishop of York, whose successors held it till the fall of Cardinal Wolsey in 1529, when it was demised to Henry VIII and the name changed from York House to Whitehall, being later annexed to the Palace of Westminster. Designs for a new palace on the same site, but of greater importance, were prepared by Inigo Jones for James I, whose resources were insufficient to complete more than the Banqueting House, which still happily survives. In 1649 it was the scene of Charles I's execution. Preserved with difficulty when a fire destroyed all the older buildings in 1698, the Hall subsequently became a Chapel Royal and remained as such till 1893, when the Crown granted the use of it to the Royal United Service Institution, whose museum is housed there. There probably exists no finer collection of trophies of valour by land and sea than is here open to the public daily (except Sundays).

The old palace, which formerly blocked the road linking the Cities of London and Westminster, was provided with two gatehouses, but has now for long given its name to the celebrated thoroughfare.

Zoological Gardens (Regents Park or Camden Town Stations) are situated in Regents Park, and contain a collection of 3,500 animals. Open from 9 a.m. Admission, Mon. 6d., other days, 1s., children 6d. ; Bank Holidays, adults 1s., children 6d. ; Sundays, by Fellow's orders only. Admission to Aquarium, Mon. (except Bank Holidays) 6d., other weekdays and Bank Holidays, 1s., children 6d. A new Reptile House has been completed and opened to the public. Great improvements have been made in showing the animals as far as possible under natural conditions.

PLACES OF INTEREST IN AND NEAR LONDON

Alexandra Palace and Park, Wood Green. Open air concerts in the Grove every Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Dancing in the Banqueting Hall. The Palace Grounds are open free daily, Bank Holidays and special fête days excepted.

Banstead Downs (Banstead and Burgh Heath Stations), Surrey. Five miles north of Redhill. Commanding extensive views. Golf course.

Blackheath. Six miles by rail from London Bridge, and seven from Charing Cross, or from Ludgate Hill or Victoria (Southern Railway). A famous place for golf and outdoor games.

Bricket Wood (Bricket Wood Station), Hertfordshire. Three miles north-east of Watford. Favourite spot for picnics. Possesses a small village.

Burnham Beeches (Burnham Beeches Station), Buckinghamshire. Lying midway between Bath and Oxford roads. Part of ancient forest acquired for public use in 1880. The forest history dates back to the time of the Norman Conquest.

A BRIEF GUIDE TO LONDON

Bushy Park. By rail from Waterloo or tram from Shepherd's Bush. A favourite excursionist resort; the Chestnut Avenue of more than a mile long is seen to best advantage in the month of May, when the famous chestnut trees are in blossom. The park has an area of 1,000 acres and is opposite Hampton Court Palace.

Chenies (Chorley Wood and Chenies Stations), Buckinghamshire. Model village. Chapel of the Russell family (1556).

Chequers (Little Kimble Station), Buckinghamshire. Country seat of the Prime Minister.

Chingford. Situated about 12 miles from London. Reached by train from Liverpool Street, and is the popular route to Epping Forest. About one mile from the station on Chingford Mount are the ruins of the old church. The Metropolitan Water Board have constructed a reservoir near here in the valley of the Lea. This was opened by King George V in March, 1913. Its length is $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles. Covering 416 acres, it has a capacity of 3,000 million gallons.

Crystal Palace, Norwood. Designed by Sir Joseph Paxton and erected in Hyde Park in 1851. Opened by the Queen on May 1st as an "Exhibition of the Industry of all the Nations." Removed to Norwood and re-erected 1853-4. A national pleasure resort. One of the architectural wonders of the world. 24 acres under glass, 200 acres of parkland. The home of many of the largest musical festivals of the world. Acquired for the nation in 1914. Entertainments for all during the season.

Croydon Aerodrome (Waddon Station) (London Terminal Aerodrome). Situated about 10 miles south of London. Principal departure aerodrome for the Continent.

Dulwich. Five miles from London. By rail from Ludgate Hill or London Bridge. The College, founded by Edward Alleyn in the reign of James I, is one of the great public schools of the metropolis. For particulars respecting the Picture Gallery see page 17. Dulwich Park of 72 acres is close by.

Epping Forest. London and North Eastern Railway from Fenchurch St. or Liverpool St. Embraces 5,000 acres, and extends for several miles from Walthamstow and Chingford to Epping. The best point of view is High Beech Hill on the west side (390 feet).

Eton (Windsor and Eton Stations), Buckinghamshire. Made famous by its College founded 1441.

Gravesend. 24 miles by rail from London Bridge. Large docks at Tilbury opposite, where ocean steamers leave for India, Australia, etc. Cobham Hall is near.

Greenwich. By rail from London Bridge, Cannon Street, and Charing Cross, or tram from Westminster, Waterloo, or Blackfriars Bridges. Admittance to Hospital free on week-days from 10 till 6 in summer, and 10 till 4 in winter; Sundays from 2 p.m. In the park, which is 174 acres in extent, is the Royal Observatory, from which longitude is reckoned. It was built at the command of Charles II, and is supplied with some of the finest astronomical instruments in the world. Connected with North Greenwich by a foot tunnel.

Hampstead. By rail from all L.M. & S. (North London) stations, by tube from Charing Cross, or tram from King's Cross, Holborn, Islington, and Euston Road. It is famous for its noble heath, from which very extensive views are obtained. The place itself is also picturesque and interesting in historical associations.

Hampton Court Palace (by Southern Railway to Teddington or Hampton Court Stations; by tramway from Shepherd's Bush or Hammersmith Underground Station; or boat from Westminster in summer) was originally built by Cardinal Wolsey and presented by him to Henry VIII in the sixteenth century. The eastern and southern fronts of the Wren block are each 330 feet long. The most noticeable of the portions open to the public are the Grand Staircase, painted by Verrio: the Kings Guard Chamber, the Presence Chamber, the King's Drawing Room, the King's Dining Room, King William's Bedroom, Queen Mary's Closet, the Queen's Bedroom, and the Queen's Gallery. The Palace contains a considerable collection of old paintings. The Gardens are laid out with noble avenues and artificial water, fine trees and flowers, and contains the celebrated Maze; also the famous grape vine, now over 150 years old. Hampton Court Park, which adjoins the Palace, covers an area of about 750 acres. The Great Hall and the Haunted Gallery are also open to the public.

Harrow-on-the-Hill (Harrow-on-the-Hill Station), Middlesex. Famous for its school founded 1571. Ancient church dating back to 1094, from which unique views can be obtained.

Hatfield is a quiet little village in Hertfordshire, 17 miles from London, notable for the noble Elizabethan mansion and splendid park belonging to the Marquis of Salisbury. Reached by the London and North-Eastern Railway from King's Cross and Moorgate Street.

Hendon Aerodrome. Frequent exhibitions of flying. Reached by motor omnibus, tram, or train.

Henley (Henley-on-Thames Station), Oxfordshire. Regatta in early summer.

Highgate. By rail from King's Cross, tram from Moorgate Street, King's Cross, Islington, and Euston Road, or by omnibus from Oxford Street or the Bank. Remarkable for fine old trees and quaint brick houses.

Kew. Reached from Waterloo, or by tube and tram, or by boat in the summer. Here are situated the celebrated Botanic Gardens, 300 acres in extent, containing a rare collection of plants from all parts of the world. The museums and numerous flower-beds, hot-houses, and conservatories are objects of great interest, especially the great Palm House, erected at a cost of £30,000. Open daily, admission 1d., excepting Tuesday and Friday 6d.

Kingston (Kingston Station), Surrey. Antique town. Noted for boating.

Richmond. 10 miles from Waterloo, on a hill sloping to the Thames; beautiful views; royal park eight miles round; boating station. Formerly a royal residence of the Tudors.

A BRIEF GUIDE TO LONDON

Rickmansworth (Rickmansworth Station), Hertfordshire. Situated at the confluence of the Rivers Colne, Chess and Gade. Contains the cottage in which Milton wrote "Paradise Lost". Centre for many beautiful excursions, Runnymede, near Egham and Staines, and at the foot of Cooper's Hill; 21 miles by rail from Waterloo.

Thames Ditton. A village on the south bank of the Thames, on the Southern Railway, and about 12 miles from London. It is opposite Hampton Court Park, and possesses a picturesque old church with a quaint looking tower and steeple. It is a great resort for angling and boating.

Twickenham. 12 miles by rail from Waterloo direct, and all L. M. & S. (North London) stations via Richmond. Pope's Villa is still to be seen. Good fishing and boating may be had, and Eel Pie Island is a famous place for picnics.

Wembley Stadium (Wembley Hill Station). Built at the time of the British Empire Exhibition. Accommodating 100,000 spectators. Official ground for the Football Association's "Cup Final." Greyhound racing track. Swimming Pool.

White City Stadium (Wood Lane Station), Shepherds Bush. Greyhound Racing track and Sports Ground.

Wimbledon, seven miles from Waterloo, has a large Common on high ground, with fine views and many fine residences.

Windsor, a royal borough, 25 miles by rail from Paddington or 21 miles from Waterloo. Famous for its ancient castle, the grandest royal residence in England, which was built by William the Conqueror during the eleventh century. Visitors are generally admitted to the Castle every week-day, except Friday, when the King is not residing there, on payment of one shilling. Hours: 11 to 4 p.m. from 1st April to 30th September, 11 to 3 p.m. from 1st October to 31st March. Virginia Water is a magnificent lake in Windsor Great Park.

Woolwich, eight miles by rail from London Bridge. The Arsenal covers more than 100 acres. Adjoining are military barracks, hospitals, etc., and on the Common is the Royal Military Academy for the education of cadets. The Victoria Gardens, on the opposite side of the Thames, are very beautifully laid out, and are now public property. A foot tunnel under the river has been constructed. A free ferry crosses to North Woolwich.
